

THE MEDICAL SENSATION OF THE AGE--THE DISCOVERY OF PE-RU-NA

BY DR. S. B. HARTMAN.

Other Remedies Failed—Pe-ru-na Cured.

Mrs. Chas. Steinecke, Stoughton, Wis., writes:
"My experience with Peruna has been most pleasing. By carefully leaving a heated ball room I got thoroughly chilled and caught a heavy cold which settled on my lungs. I wore a protector, took many remedies for cold without success. With my other troubles I had catarrh of the head.
"Peruna was recommended to me and I bought a bottle and soon began to improve. I kept on taking it and it cured me from all my troubles. I am pleased to testify to its merits."

The World's Greatest Medicine Factory.

The rapid growth of the Peruna Medicine Company is as phenomenal in the business world as the universal popularity of their famous remedy, Peruna. The plant covers a number of acres, and employs several hundred people. No other medicine firm in the world reaches anything like the volume of business done by Dr. Hartman's firm. Although Peruna is a proprietary medicine, the details of its compounding are no secret and nothing gives Dr. Hartman greater pleasure than to show the many friends of Peruna all the esential processes by which Peruna is made.

A Doctor's Prescription.

For years Dr. Hartman used Peruna in his private practice as a regular prescription. He had no thought of manufacturing it or advertising it as a proprietary medicine until there was a demand made upon him by his many friends, who clamored for the original prescription.

Forty Thousand Patients.

Dr. Hartman estimates that he must have prescribed Peruna for over forty thousand patients before it was advertised as a proprietary medicine.

Cured in Four Weeks of Severe Cold on Lungs.

Miss Josie Schaezel, R. R. No. 1, Appleton, Wis., writes:
"I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs in very short order and it was not long until it developed into a serious case of catarrh. Every morning I would raise a lot of phlegm, which was very disagreeable. My digestion was poor and my lungs sore.
"After a few doses of Peruna, I began to mend, and felt that if I kept on taking it, it would not be long until I would be well. I was right, for in four weeks I was well again."
"I think Peruna is a grand medicine, and wish to add my testimony to the many others you have."—Josie Schaezel.

Pe-ru-na Removes the Cause of Catarrh.

Peruna has no bad effects upon the system and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years.

Given Up By Doctors—Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Miss Margaret Fahey, 49 Adams street, Troy, N. Y., writes:
"We have used Peruna in our family for years and I am very pleased to say that it cured me of catarrh of the lungs when the doctors gave up all hope of my recovery.
"I used Peruna for six months and at the end of that time my cough had disappeared, my appetite was much better and I had gained ten pounds and looked the picture of health.
"I am in perfect health, now, and feel that Peruna not only cures catarrh, but builds up the system, and is therefore a grand medicine."—Margaret Fahey.

Pe-ru-na's Popularity.

Peruna is not like so many other remedies that pass away as soon as the first few bottles are used. The longer Peruna is used in any community, the more popular it becomes.

Pe-ru-na Actually Cures.

The reason why Peruna has become a standard catarrh remedy the world over is simply because it cures catarrh.

This Explains Why Peruna has become so popular.

It cures catarrh. This is an amply sufficient reason why it should become popular. Catarrh is almost universal. Catarrh is difficult to cure. The doctors do not care to treat cases of catarrh at all. It therefore follows that when a remedy is devised that can be used in the home at a moderate cost, such a remedy should inevitably become popular.

Entirely Cured By Several Bottles of Pe-ru-na.

Miss Ella M. Miller, one of Washington's society girls, writes from 140 F street, N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"With pleasure I recommend your medicine for catarrh of the head. Having taken several bottles, I find myself entirely cured. I cannot praise Peruna too highly."—Ella M. Miller.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics.

There are a great many catarrh cures in the world. The most of them are local applications. Few of them are to be used internally.

Unfortunately a large number of these catarrh remedies, especially the ones prescribed by the doctors, contain narcotics of some sort. Cocaine, opium, whisky, and other narcotics are used. These remedies give temporary relief. The patient thinks he is better right away. In a few weeks, however, he discovers his mistake. Not only is his catarrh no better, but he has acquired the habit of using some narcotic. This happens in a multitude of cases.

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind.

Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit.

JACKSON'S FANCY.

The General Liked Him Better Than a Spirited Horse.

"Stonewall" Jackson was as picturesque in the saddle as he was on foot, says the Washington Star. The grim old Presbyterian elder had ridden in his youth in West Virginia in races for an uncle, of which act in later years he was not proud. At the beginning of the civil war or thereabouts some of his admirers presented him with a war charger suitable for a man of growing fame and bright military future. He had been riding up to that date a very much smaller gelding of very poor appearance, which was one of a carload captured by his command at some point on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and consigned to Washington. This particular animal the general gave the name of Fancy, although from all accounts of Confederate soldiers it fell far short of the title in equine attributes, except in one respect—he had a fancy whenever the command halted for lying down and rolling like a dog. What the general liked most about him, aside from his quiet manners, was his gait, which he himself described as being "fancy as a cradle." Evidently the animal was of the hobby horse species.

The mount selected for Jackson was quite another animal in blood, disposition and spirit. On a certain review the general, dressed in a new uniform in place of the dingy gray he had long worn, appeared on the field mounted on his blooded charger, but when the band struck up "Hail to the Chief" and his men burst into loud cheers the horse bolted, threw "Old Jack" and trailed the new uniform in the dust. Fancy was never thereafter displaced in his affectionate esteem. He rode him in his valley and peninsular campaigns and was on his back on the evening of May 2, 1863, at Chancellorsville when he received the wound which resulted in his untimely death. For a long time Fancy was lost after the above event, but was finally found by a Confederate soldier and subsequently given a home in the family of Jackson's father-in-law, Dr. Morrison, Lincoln county, N. C. Fancy lived to a most extraordinary age, dying in 1888. His skin was prepared by an expert attached to the Smithsonian institution and is at the Confederate Soldiers' home, Richmond, Va.

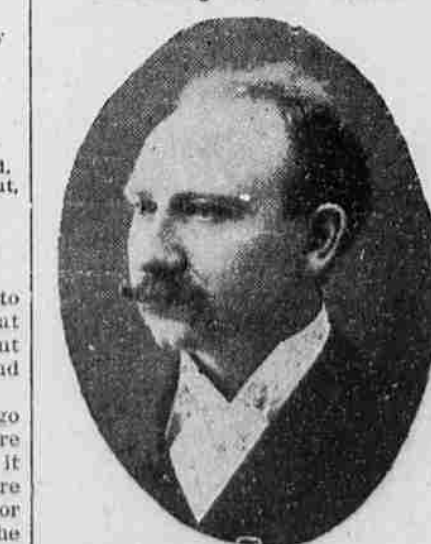

How, indeed? A speaker at a meeting, referring to the marriage laws, remarked that it was not generally known that a man could not marry his widow's cousin. "Widow's sister, you mean," corrected one of the audience. "No," replied the speaker; "I mean widow's cousin." "I tell you," said the interrupter, "that a man may marry his widow's sister, but not his widow's cousin. I suggest that you should examine the tables of affinity." "But," persisted the speaker, "how can a man marry any one when his wife's a widow?"

Barred Him. "Why don't you buy an automobile?" "Can't afford it." "I believe they do require the dollar down in cash."

Where Are They? They call it a double blessedness. But still it keeps one guessing in such a very lovely life To find a single blessing.

Chapel Ridge No. 2.

The prayers of the righteous enter the ears of the Most High; but save us dear Lord, is good, we certainly love such prayers; it is like the ones our mothers taught us when we were children: come again my dear colleague.

Mr. C. E. Lyons, after disposing of his Brookside farm of sixty acres, purchased one hundred and sixty acres of Messrs. Ed. Ricketts and E. O. Pettit, of Logan. Chas. is going in the brush business, he will call it the Brushy Hill farm. There was a school election at No. 4 this township, after much hustling among the parties the democrats nominated Mr. Leslie Lehman, the republicans Mr. C. E. Lyons, quite a time was had. Seventeen votes were cast, strange to say the result was 16 to 1 in favor of Lehman, carry the news to Bryan.

Mr. Elmer Kitchen, of Salt Creek, was seen on our ridge one day last week.

Mr. Will Barnhart, of Whip-poorwill Hollow, is employed by C. E. Lyons.

If I miss any items of interest please pardon me for it is not done intentionally. I missed some last week but it was not done with the intention of taking sides with one party and against another. As I said, some few days ago, I wanted to give the news as near correct as I could, and where I know there is enmity existing between families or persons I never aim to say anything in favor of one and against the other unless the truth so demands.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

ADVICE GALORE.

In papers, books and magazines we always find advice enough. And much of it looks very good. Until we try to use the stuff. They tell us how to milk a cow And how to make a woman mind. And how to dance and how to sing And how to hang a window blind.

You get in very simple form Advice on how to run a wife That you may rule and keep her pleased. And have a little peace in life. You'd think to read the printed slip That all there was for you to do Was cut it out and take it home And try it on a wife or two.

They hand you, among other things, Advice on how to set a hen On two less than a dozen eggs. So you may raise a brood of ten. And how to bring them up by hand And teach the little ones to lay That they may be your pride and joy And each produce an egg a day.

Yes, the advice looks fresh enough And just the very thing you need To make you hit the places high And get success securely tread. They seem gilt edged, morocco bound. These pretty dreams you read about. Self acting and the kind that spins, Until you come to try them out.

Down on Whiskers.

A Kansas expert asks the doctors to remove their whiskers, claiming that the microbes find them a convenient place in which to build their nests and rear their young.

He doesn't want the doctor to go about dropping a word of cheer here and a microbe there and charging it all up in the bill, just as though it were X ray treatment or a prescription for 3 cents' worth of medicine that the druggist would gladly fill for 50 cents.

Whiskers have received some hard blows of late, not including those handed to them by the breezes, and probably they will have to go. But how is the young doctor to make an impression on the public if he doesn't carry around a set of whiskers on his first trip? The public may allow him to give them medicine, but they won't stand for as big charges.

Hard Lines For the Red Men.

Now that the Indian Territory is to become a half of a sister to us instead of a half sister, as it has been, the red brother has accumulated a new line of responsibilities, troubles and temptations. It is enough for the white man to answer for that he introduced the Indian to whisky and taught him to let his red hide with red liquor without having it on his head that he induced the simple aborigine to run for congress and become a member of the United States senate.

What with the shades of his ancestors say as they jibber away in classic Sioux or mixed Choctaw when they see Mr. Lo wrap his tattered coffee sack about him and go down to Washington to help make laws for white and red alike and to mingle in the mad scramble for graft? Nothing very complimentary to their descendants, you may rest assured.

Calico Ridge.

Easter is now a thing of the past, and it rained some too, and now we may expect rain on the next seven Sundays, then a long continued dry time, according to the old adage.

John Funk and wife, of Five Mill, spent Sunday with Mr. Geo. Hansel and wife.

Mrs. Hattie Funk is still very sick with nervous prostration.

Squire Shultz is on the tramp now listing personal property for tax.

Mrs. Amanda Harsh is on the sick list.

Mr. Henry Shultz, of Lancaster, visited his nephew, Eph Shultz, over Sunday.

About 50 of Mrs. Jane Snider's neighbors and friends gathered at her home with well filled baskets and took her by surprise it being the anniversary of her birth, 55 years ago, a table was prepared and the viands were spread before the merry throng and all partook to their hearts content. After dinner the time was passed in social conversation, and music furnished by Mr. Frank Wolf on his graphophone. When the shades of evening came they all departed for their homes wishing her many more anniversaries as pleasant as this one had been.

The farmers are all now very busy preparing for their spring crops. The whippoorwill is tuning up for the good old summer time, and all things indicate that spring is here.
